

PLAN FEDERAL EXHIBIT FOR INAUGURAL CROWDS

Work of Government Departments Will Be Shown Visitors.

WILL SEE HOW MONEY IS MADE

Interesting Demonstration to Be Made of "Uncle Sam at Work."

Visitors to the inauguration will be shown one of the most comprehensive displays of governmental activities—or "Uncle Sam at Work"—that has ever been exhibited.

The Treasury Department will show how paper money, postage stamps and gold and silver coin are made. There will be an interesting display of counterfeiters by the Secret Service, and the rescue of life and property will be shown by the coast guard, which now includes the life-saving service.

The museum of the dead letter office with its freaks of the mails will be a feature of the display of the Postoffice Department, also the peculiar mail carrier systems of certain parts of the world.

The War Department will present an exhibit including methods of national defense, destructive engines of war and the varied uniforms worn at different periods since the revolution by American soldiers. The Navy Department will show models of Dreadnoughts, battleships, submarines and other fighting craft.

Rural visitors will be interested in the display of the Department of Agriculture, with its specimens of rare growths and freaks of the fruit and vegetable world. To all of the above exhibits from the several government museums.

The Department of the Interior will furnish displays from the Indian Service, Bureau of Education, Reclamation Service, Pension Bureau, Bureau of Mines, and the Patent Office.

The Bureau of Naturalization of the Department of Labor is working up an exhibit of its co-operative efforts with the public schools of more than 1,100 communities throughout the United States in citizenship training for foreigners who have filed naturalization papers.

The House yesterday passed the Senate resolution providing for extra police, public comfort stations and other arrangements to care for the safety and comfort of inaugural visitors, but with an amendment reducing the appropriation from $40,000 to $25,000.
